

All responsible

ARE we really going to let our State Government hand out public land in one of our national parks so the Mt Wellington Cable Car Company “undertake assessments and prepare a development application”? It sounds like our Government has made up its mind without much public consultation. Where is the voice of our community in this? Is our vision for Tasmania that shallow the only way we can think of attracting visitors here is if we copy hundreds of other places.

Tasmania is special because it is wild. People come here because nature has not been tamed yet. As Tasmanians, we have learnt to live with it.

Let's think of a way to spend $54 million dollars that would set Hobart apart and demonstrate our connection to our amazing mountain. How can we create a tourism drawcard without degrading the inherent worth of our natural landscapes? Let's begin this public debate. We are all responsible.

Mercury
21 Aug 2017

Andy Szollosi
Sandy Ba