

Keep the theme

THE height of buildings in the Hobart CBD and Sullivans Cove area are to be modelled by council officers to determine a new height limit. Why can't the council listen to the ratepayers they represent and put the limit at 45m and 18m? The existing buildings which slightly exceed these limits are recognised as undesirable in setting the theme for the future Hobart, and should not be repeated. Can council please model the ratepayers' sentiments and stick with that? We love our city with its current theme.

Ross Lincolne
Cradoc

Mercury 27 Sept '17