

Master plan first

SPEAKER Sue Hickey called for calm in respect of the fast-track rezoning of 68ha in Huntingfield, noting that the government's "master plan" hadn't been completed (Mercury, July 27).

Surely the rezoning should happen after a master plan for Greater Hobart is complete, particularly given the other 600 houses that are being built across the road. The people of Hobart may be more impressed with a government that plans properly than one that takes action without consultation.

Andrew Hejtmanek
Howden

Mercury
5 Aug 2019