

Beware

HERE in Melbourne, the Singapore-based Fragrance Group is aiming to build an unwelcome tower after having another, taller tower rejected. Media reports the group was looking to sell on its Australian interests, but is delaying until a better return is realisable. Hobart, beware. Fragrance has nil interest in the long-term wellbeing of your heritage-era, low-rise city in its natural amphitheatre. Do not let local leaders with an equally short-term, money-making outlook tweak your laws to enable Fragrance's crude plan to go ahead.
